Gov. Brogden has appointed James E. Webb, of Greensboro, Ala., a commissioner of deeds for this State.

We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to attend a grand entertainment at Polkton, Anson county on Christmas eve. The entertainment will consist of tableaux, charades, and vocal and instrumental music.

ESCAPE OF CONVICTS—ONE KILLED.—We learn that a few days since three convicts employed on the W. N. C. R. R. escaped from those who had them in charge. On Sunday the escaped parties were discovered at Bridgewater, and in the attempt to capture them one was killed, one retaken and the third one escaped.

OFF FOR PHILADELPHIA.—Gov. Brogden, accompanied by his aide, Col. I. J. Young, (the fighting Revenue officer,) left this city Thursday morning to join the Presidential and Congressional party in Philadelphia on Friday, with a view of "doing up" the Centennial grounds on Saturday.

DEATH SENTENCE COMMUTED.—Gov. Brogden has commuted (to imprisonment for life) the death sentence of Robert McDonald, col., convicted of burglary at the January term of Cumberland Superior Court and sentenced to be hung the 17th inst. The commutation was recommended by the jury who tried the case.

CLOSE OF THE BLEDSOE CASE.—The case of W. H. Bledsoe vs. the Atlantic Insurance Company, of New York, and the city Fire Insurance Company of Richmond, Va., being a suit to recover insurance on a mill burnt in 1875, was decided Thursday night, the jury giving a verdict in favor of Bledsoe in the sum of $3,375 against each company.

THE TUNNEL WORK ON THE W. N. C. R. R.—At a recent meeting of the Commissioners of the Western North Carolina Road, held at Old Fort, we learn a contract was made with Major James W. Wilson to complete the tunneling of the Blue Ridge between Old Fort and Asheville. It will be remembered that the contract of this work when first commenced was in the hands of Messrs. Malone & Wilson. It is to be hoped that Major Wilson may now be enabled to prosecute the work to completion.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.—This court, Judge Brooks presiding, was Thursday engaged on the equity docket, and disposition made of the following cases: E. C Lawrence vs. N. C. Mutual Life Insurance company, continued; A. H Swazey, report of the receiver and order for distribution filed and case continued; Charles Dewey, assignee of the bank of N. C., vs. the Trustees of the University of N. C, continued; E. D. Andrews vs. George Lander, continued on account of the death of defendant; Western Railroad Company, vs. H. J. Rogers et als, continued; W. T. Camp vs. R. H. Smith, executor, dismissed on motion of defendant; Harvey Terry vs. J. P. Williams et als., continued; the Goodyear Vulcanite company and Josiah Bacon vs. Chas. S. Campbell, continued; same vs. W. N. Berkley, continued; same vs. G. K. Bagley, continued; same vs. A. R. Miller, continued; same vs. J. H. Crawford, continued; same vs. Ervin Floyd, continued. The petit jurors have been discharged and the court will probably adjourn to-day.

THE YOUNG-CHAPIN DIFFICULTY—SEVERAL "COUSIN SALLY DILLARD" WITNESSES INTRODUCED INTO THE EXAMINATION—DR. CHAPIN DISCHARGED.—Dr. A. B. Chapin, of Chatham, was yesterday arrainged before Mayor Manly upon the charge of violating the peace of the city in connection with the difficulty between himself and Col. I. J. Young in the Capitol Square, on Tuesday, an account of which we gave yesterday morning.

Dr. Chapin appeared by counsel in the person of Mr. George Snow, who plead not guilty. The hearing of the case elicited the following facts:

A. D. Jenkins testified: He saw Col. Young and Dr. Chapin walking together near the Washington statue. He saw Young strike Chapin several times with a stick. He saw what he took to be a knife drawn in the hands of Chapin, and the latter advanced towards Young with the knife in his hand. He being distant, heard nothing of the language which produced the affray.

Cross examined—He was standing in the Treasurer's office at the time looking through the window. He had procured the stick from the Auditor's office for Col. Young. He knew Young desired to have a difficulty with some one. He was certain that Chapin had a knife in his hands. He thought Chapin was thrown to the ground during the scuffle, when he cried "murder!" He started towards them, but did not reach them until they had separated. He did not know what caused the separation of the two.

R. C. Badger, Esq., at this juncture appeared as counsel for Young as co-defendant and cross-examined Jenkins, eliciting no new facts, except that he did not think that Chapin was at all anxious to fight.

Badger asked if Young did not give Chapin a sound thrashing. Mr. Snow objected to any such question.

Gen. John C. Gorman examined—Like the hero of "Cousin Sally Dillard," knew nothing of the affair, did not see it and it wasn't his fight.

Mr. Weatherell, of the Auditor's office, and John McDonald, formerly of Chatham but more recently an employee on the Government building in this city, also testified as to their knowledge of the fight—neither of them saw it or knew anything of the affair and did not even know who "'gin the treat."

At this stage of the proceedings, (much to the disgust of Ye Local, who had just gotten his hand in as a specialist for the occasion,) Attorney Badger stated that this assault was made in what Col. Young believed to be a vindication of his own honor, having been made in consequence of former difficulties and not from any cause on the occasion. Young was the attacking party, and he was free to say he did not believe the defendant had violated the peace of this city, as he had acted only upon the defensive. Whereupon Mayor Manly dismissed Dr. Chapin from custody.

And thus ended the first chapter of this Young-Chapin difficulty.

A WILD GOOSE CHASE AFTER A FIRE.—Yesterday about 11 o'clock the alarm of fire sounded through the city, which, as it afterwards appeared, was occasioned by the burning of a chimney on the premises of Jno. B. Neathery, Esq. But the fire companies and the usual crowd that responds to an alarm was attracted by smoke curling up into the air in the direction of the Central Depot, which, however, proved to be the burning of an old field in the neighborhood of the Insane Asylum. The fire companies not caring to meddle with this fire, quietly returned to their engine houses.

MARRIAGE IN OXFORD.—A short time ago the Rev. Mr. Shackford, of the Methodist Church, bore off one of Oxford's beauties as his lovelybride and now the Rev. F. R. Griffith has just been united in the holy band to Miss Mary Blacknall, another of Oxford's beauties. The Rev. Mr. Hoyle will succeed Mr. Griffith on the Granville circuit, and as he is an unmarried man, we tell Mr. Hoyle to look out or he will find himself entrapped in the meshes of matrimony.

SCHOOL AT ASHEVILLE.—The Richmond Dispatch says:

"Colonel John K. Connally, now a student at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, proposes making his home and field of labor near Asheville, in Western North Carolina."

Col. Connally was a distinguished North Carolina soldier, commanding one of her gallant regiments, the number of which we do not remember.

MATRIMONIAL.—Mr. Frank P. Dunn, of Wake, and Miss Olivia Tillery, of Halifax county, were yesterday married at Enfield, N. C. The bridal couple, accompanied by several friends from Halifax, were registered at the Yarboro last night.

STILL ANOTHER.—We chronicle another marriage in Oxford. The daughter of Mr. A. H. Cook, Register of Deeds for Granville, has been united to Mr. J. Hobgood, of that county. Oxford is having a carnival of marriages.

Mark Twain, having been invited to contribute something to an infant asylum, offered to be one of 1,000 citizens "who shall agree to contribute two or more of their children to this enterprise."

ANNOUNCEMENT.—We are requested by Messrs. R. B. Andrews & Co., to say they take pleasure in informing the public that they will sell the famous Wamsutta dress shirt at the astonishing low price of $12 per dozen or six for $6.

REPORT OF THE FINANCE COMMITTEE OF WAKE FOREST COLLEGE.—The finance committee of this College recentiy submitted a report of its monetary status, from which the Sentinel gleaned the following facts:

"At the close of the war the only available funds on hand were $15,000 of Deep river bonds, worth 60 cents on the dollar. These were exchanged for Raleigh & Gaston railroad stock, which was afterwards sold at $45 a share, and the proceeds with other funds collected, were invested in the bonds of the city of Raleigh at $87 on the hundred. The face value of these, $16,250, bearing 8 per cent interest, but no interest has been paid on them for the past year. There are on hand 10 shares of the stock of the Wilmington & Weldon railroad, bearing a cash value of $787, first mortgage bonds based on real estate in the vicinity of the college, $6,204.-18; unsecured personal notes, $250; Raleigh bonds estimated at 50 cents in the dollar, $8,125; making the available assets at a cash valuation, $15,279.18. The treasurer has in his possession about $40,-000 in bonds and notes, given for endowment, part before and part since the war, $6,000 of which can be realized. Since Jan. 1, 1873, up to June 1, 1875, $23,103.03 was collected and paid to the treasurer; interest collected on invested funds, $1,63 ,02; sale of lots at the college; $705; total, $25,-000. During the above mentioned term the treasurer distributed for various purposes $25,315.31. The committee suggest the appointment of a board of investment for the endowment fund, consisting of three prudent business men, selected from various parts of the State, who shall meet once a year or oftener if it is necessary, to whose care the endowment fund shall be entrusted. The employment of some active business man to push the endowment work is recommended, and Col. J. M. Heck, of this city, is named as the proper man for the position."

THE RESCUE FIRE COMPANY.—The following circular from this Company, which adds so largely to the safety of the prosperity of Raleigh, speaks for itself:

RALEIGH, Nov. 1st, 1875.

Dear Sir: In order to assist in perpetuating the organization of this Company, amendments have been made to our by-laws to admit a Beneficiary Active Membership, each of whom shall be entitled after paying an annual tax fee, to all the privileges and immunities granted by law to the Company. The Active Membership are not subject to jury or military duty. Many citizens are doubtless anxious to aid in keeping up this company but are prevented from attending drills and meetings by press of business. This beneficiary class are excused from this duty, and by becoming members and paying an annual fee of ten dollars, are thus relieved from the active duties of firemen, and are also exempt from the onerous duty of serving on juries. A certificate to this effect will be given to all members of the Beneficiary class. We beg that you avail yourself of these privileges, and at the same time aid us in our efforts to continue our organization.

Respectfully Yours, &c.,
THEO. FENTRESS, Secretary.

The Committee appointed in connection with the above will visit our citizens to-day.

MR. GREGORY IMPROVING.—Mr. Charles R. Gregory, of Granville, whose skull was so seriously injured by falling from his horse, we are pleased to announce is gradually improving with fair prospects of being up again at no distant day.

PAYMENT OF COUPONS.—We learn that Mr. Mickle, of Chapel Hill, will be in Raleigh on Tuesday next, for that and the following week, to pay coupons in the Swazey case, under the decree at the present term of the U. S. Circuit Court. Holders of coupons will please take notice.

FARMING INTERESTS.

FINE STOCK.—Mr. John Scott writes to the Swine and Poultry Journal as follows:

My neighbor bought a trio of fine pigs, paying therefore the reasonable sum of $120. The male was valued at $60, and the females at $30 each. This was a wise apportionment of values, as the male would impress his value on all the produce. There are those who think, however, that $60 is to great a price for one pig. In this case he did not die or prove barren, but he begat his likeness not only on the females of his own blood, but largely on others to which he was bred. In the short space of two years my neighbor had sold, at prices much less than he paid, pure bred pigs to the amount of $900; had on hand a stock of young pigs worth $300; still had the original stock, and had paid for all his feed and labor by the use of his male on his and other stock. To say nothing of his enjoyment in the possession of the best, of the increased respect of his neighbors, of his own culture growing out of the thought he gave to his pursuit, he had a clear return of $1,000 on an investment of $120; and all in only two short years.

SUCCESSFUL PEAR CULTURE.—L. & A. B. Rathbone, of Oakfield, Genesee county, New York, have furnished for this department the following facts relative to their experiment in cultivating pears: In the spring of 1864 they set out 4,000 dwarf pear trees, 3,000 Dutches, 500 Louise Bonne de Jersey, 400 Beurre de Anjou, and 100 Vicar of Wakefield. The trees are ten feet apart each way, occupying ten acres. The soil is a gravelly loam, mixed with sand, with clay subsoil. For five years the trees were severely pruned. The orchard has received medium cultivation but no fertilizer, except that in June, 1873, it was dressed with about eight bushels per acre of slacked lime and unleached wood ashes. Delivered in barrels at Batavia, and beginning with 1868, the several amounts received for annual sales for six successive years were as follows, and in the order named: $100, $230, $110, $1,358, $2,250, $5,530—total, $9,458. It will be noticed that in the last-named year, 1873, the gross sales reached $553 per acre.—Report of Department of Agriculture.

THE WILMINGTON JOURNAL.—The Journal of yesterday says:

"According to previous announcement, the Journal was sold yesterday. By this sale the paper is relieved of its pecuniary embarrassments, and is again on a solid financial foundation. At present there will be no change in its editorial management, and in no event will there be any departure in its political bearing and position. Always true, always bold, uncompromising in its political opinions, it will give forth, at no time and under no circumstances, any uncertain sound.

"Its business department will be placed under a gentleman of recognized competency and experience; its publishing department will be enlarged and improved, and nothing will be left undone to render the Journal a welcome visitor in every household. It will only ask to be judged by and be received on its merits."

THE LASH IN VIRGINIA—A PLEASANT ECHO OF OLD TIMES.—The Petersburg Index-Appeal says:

"Two colored boys were arrested in this city yesterday, on the charge of stealing seven pieces of bacon from Mr. Gill, of Lower Brandon, the theft having been committed in Petersburg. They were taken before Justice Atkinson, and the evidence proving their guilt, they were ordered thirty-nine lashes each at the whipping post. Officer Perkinson was appointed special constable to execute the sentence, which it is reported, he did with remarkable skill."

SAD AND FATAL ACCIDENT.—Saturday morning Edward Archer, a son of Dr. Edward Archer, of Chesterfield, met with an accident which resulted in his instant death. The young man was out hunting at the time near the Huguenot Springs. He laid his gun, which was half cocked at the time, upon a log near by, and stooped over to drink from a spring. In doing so his foot struck the gun, causing it to fall upon the ground and go off. The entire load struck the unfortunate young man in the breast, killing him instantly. —Petersburg Index-Appeal.

MAMMOTH PETITION.—A special dispatch to the Richmond Dispatch, among other information given says:

Mr. Randall filed at the Speaker's desk to-day a mammoth petition praying for the repeal of the bank stamp-check act. The petition was enclosed in a handsome walnut box. It is seven hundred and six feet, or about one eighth of a mile in length. It contains thirty thousand three hundred and nineteen names, representing thirty-three States and five Territories.

A WIDELY APPLICABLE REMEDY.—Few remedies are applicable to such a wide range of disorders as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and this not because it has several properties adapted to the cure of each—such a pretence would be manifestly absurd,—but on account of its wonderfully improving effect upon the general tone of the system, and its alterative action upon the organs of nutrition, secretion and discharge. Besides its well known properties as a remedy for intermittent and remittent fevers, dyspepsia, constipation, torpidity of the liver, general debility, urinary and uterine difficulties, it invariably proves to be highly serviceable in overcoming anæmia, hypochondria, rheumatism, insomnia, and many other disorders and disabilities originating in poverty or impurity of the blood, nervous weakness or overexcitement or an imperfect performance of the physical functions.

The people look to its columns for advertisements because it contains the largest number and greatest variety of any paper published in North Carolina.

Advertisers patronize it because it is the recognized medium of advertisements and because it has the largest circulation in the State. They are satisfied it pays or they would not invest their money from year to year without benefit.

TO BUSINESS MEN.

A good advertisement in a widely circulated newspaper is the best of all possible

salesmen. It is a salesman who never sleeps D
and is never weary; who goes after business
E
early and late; who accosts the merchant in his store, the scholar in his study, the lawyer in his office, the lady in her home, the traveler in the car or boat;
V
a salesman who no purchaser can avoid, who can be in a thousand places at once and speak to thousands of people daily, R
E
saying to each one the best thing in the best manner. A good advertisement insures a business connection on the most permanent and independent basis, and is in a certain sense, a guarantee to the customer of fair and moderate prices. Experience has shown that the dealer, whose wares have obtained a public celebrity, is not only enabled to sell, but is forced to sell at reasonable rates, and to furnish a good article. A dealer can make no better investment than in the advertising columns of a widely circulated newspaper. Such is the opinion of a man who is known to be the largest advertiser in the United States.
I
I
N
G

That is THE DAILY NEWS.

HENDERSON has made a name by his martyrdom. A despatch to the New York Times says his dismissal continues to be the subject of vigorous and animated talk. Carl Schurz's paper, the Westliche Post, nominates Henderson for President and says Bristow must get out of the way for that position. It is very clear that that journal with its powerful influence will never be brought in to the support of Grant, even if he is nominated for the third term.

THE Radicals make a howl that ex-Confederates are receiving a small share of the subordinate offices in the gift of the House of Representatives. We would like to ask these gentry what they did with their scruples at the last National Republican Convention when they made "Capt. Tom Settle," late of the Confederate army, President of the body which nominated Grant? Is repentance and conversion to Radical faith the only purgation of blood from rebel hands?

THE VIRGINIA SENATOR.

The contest in the caucus of the Virginia Legislature which was prolonged through five days, was terminated on Wednesday by the selection of the Hon. John W. Johnston. The several ballotings have been given in our telegraphic columns.

It is pleasant to find that though the friends of the many eminent gentlemen whose names were before the caucus stontly contested every inch of ground, there was nothing in the contest derogatory to the character of gentlemen, nothing violative of party discipline, nothing that ought to leave any unpleasant feeling. All was fair, open and manly.

Mr. Johnston, who was re-elected yesterday is the present incumbent, and is a gentleman probably the peer in character and intellect of any of his competitors, and though little distinguished for that brilliant oratory of which Virginia is so prolific, he is distinguished for sound practical judgment, enlarged and liberal views, and high personal character. Virginia may well felicitate herself that she has so many from whom to choose.

THE COMMANDER OF THE SHENANDOAH.

We give place, to the exclusion of much other matter, to an article from the California Chronicle in relation to Capt. James I. Waddell, who recently arrived at San Francisco as Commander of the Pacific Mail Steamer, City of San Francisco, and we believe our readers will pardon us for giving space to what relates to a North Carolinian who added such lustre to his native State, and who, of all the officers of the Confederate service, had the sole honor of bearing its flag around the world.

The article in the Chronicle is not objectionable. But we add a slip from another San Francisco paper, sent us without naming the journal, which is offensive in the extreme.

The sentiments of this California journal are not to be taken as that of the North. It is only of that class for which the Government organ speaks, who, inside of the Union or outside of the Union, have no compromises to make with "the ex-rebels;" of men like Morton, who will wave the bloody shirt to the last; of men whose sense of individual loss embitters their hearts and distorts their judgment to the degree of destroying the distinction between the legitimate acts of warfare and that of piracy.

The imputations of cowardice upon Capt. Waddell will fall harmless upon the head of one who is the embodiment of chivalrous courage; of one conspicuous in the "old service" for personal gallantry; of one known to the Confederate service for his daring, and selected by it for carrying out the most desperate enterprises, such for instance, as the project of destroying the Federal iron clads in the harbor of Charleston; an expedition of such desperate character as amounted almost to a sentence of death, yet undertaken by Capt. Waddell without a moment's hesitation, and only failing for want of co-operation in other quarters; selected also by the Confederate government to take command of the two iron clads built by the Laird's at Liverpool, intercepted by the English government when ready for the sea, the consequence of which was the order to purchase and fit out at his own discretion a vessel suitable for his object, and which, running the gauntlest of the seas, finally effected its objects by crippling so effectually the commerce of the then enemy. If there was any cowardice in this, it was shared to the full by the Federal commanders, who lay off our blockaded ports, and picked up, if they could catch, the swift, heeled, but unarmed blockade runners, with a sordid motive, too, that never actuated Capt. Waddell—that of profit and prize money earned without personal hazard, and without honor to their flag.

Capt. Waddell owes his appointment not to his own seeking, but to the earnest, but unsought efforts of officers high in command in the U. S. Navy at the present time, who knew his courage, who knew his honor, and who saw in him a man every way qualified by professional skill and personal characteristics to do justice to the powerful and loyal company that employed him.

And the company is wise enough, and sufficiently sensible of its own interests to pay no attention to the malignant cry of the loyal pack which tries to hound them on to Capt. Waddell's ruin. They will stand by him till this vindictive and unreasonable obstruction is overcome. Capt. Waddell writes us, "I am temporarily relieved of the command of the steamer and will be here (San Francisco) for more than two months as Superintendent of the Pacific Mail Company's docks, &c. If the difficulty is over before she returns, I shall be restored to her."

This is a question which we hope will be at once brought to the attention of Congress, and we hope our members will at once exert themselves to free from embarrassment one before whom the shield of government has been thrown, and whose acts of warfare have long since been recognized as legitimate under the principles governing the law of nations.

WADDELL'S DANGER.

ASTONISHMENT AT THE PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP OFFICE.

The Captain of the "City of San Francisco" Threatened with a Trial for Piracy, and Possible Death at Honolulu.

When the men of the North clasped hands with the men of the South across the "bloody chasm," and joined in jovial fellowship under one flag, pledges were made that "the late unpleasantness" should be buried with the past and that henceforth there should be no dividing line. But now after ten years have passed since the last gun was fired, it seems that one who figured on the side of the so-called Southern Confederacy is again to be prominently brought to public notice. This man is James I. Waddell, Captain of the splendid new steamer City of San Francisco, of the Pacific Mail Steamship line from this city to Honolulu and Australia. Captain Waddell was a Lieutenant-Commander in the Confederate navy, and had command of the rebel cruiser Shenandoah which among the whalers and merchantmen on the Pacific. He was classed as a pirate by the late Secretary of State, Wm. H. Seward, and was a terror among the toilers of the sea. Since the closing of the war he had no occupation up to the time when the Pacific Mail Steamship Company sought him out and offered him the command of the City of San Francisco, which position he accepted. A few days ago he brought the vessel into this port after a quick and highly successful passage. The departure of the ship for Honolulu and Australia was announced for the 8th inst. and yesterday it was discovered by a Chronicle reporter that Captain Waddell is not to go out in the vessel, and that on her first trip she is to be under the command of Captain Lachlan, an old employee of the company. This change created

THE UTMOST SURPRISE AND ASTONISHMENT

among the officers and crew of the ship and sorely vexed the company, and especially Captain Waddell. The substitution of some other officer as Commander was, for the time being, made compulsory on the company.—The officers of the steamship line were at first indisposed to give the facts to the public, but the reporter had previously learned that the agents here were in extensive telegraphic communication with the home office in New York, and that the chief officers of the company had appealed to President Grant for protection to Captain Waddell when in the Hawaiian waters, and that it was at length decided that it would not be safe for the Captain to take the vessel to Honolulu, as it was positively certain that he would there be arrested and possibly executed on the prisonment for life or

CONDEMNED TO DEATH.

The company hope however, by retaining the Captain here to so arrange matters with certain Hawaiian subjects that he can take the ship out on its second trip. The ex-Attorney-General of the Hawaiian Government and a well-known lawyer of this city were consulted by the company and advised not to permit Captain Waddell to take command of the vessel on this trip. In the event of his arrest and detention the ship would necessarily be without a chief officer, and it is of very great importance that she should not be impeded, as she carries the United States and British mails. The first intimation that Captain Waddell would be arrested at the Sandwich Islands reached this city through the Sydney agent of the company, who stopped at Honolulu. Now for the occasion of this sudden outburst. In March, 1865, the closing year of the war, Captain Waddell with the Shenandoah while on his mission to destroy the commerce of the Northern States, cruised around the island of Punipette in the North Pacific Ocean. This island is inhabited by five different tribes of semi-savages, and each tribe has a king.—In April and, as a ruse, hoisted the American flag. Four vessels lay at anchor closely, and they at once flew the same colors from the gaff. Captain Waddell immediately lowered his false colors and raised the flag of the Southern Confederacy instead, and then opened fire on the four whalers, thus completely destroying them. It transpired later that three of the vessels were owned in New Bedford, Mass., and the other, the bark Harvest, was the property of subjects of the Hawaiian Kingdom. Capt Waddell was anxiously looked for both by the United States Government and that of the Hawaiian Islands. When the rebellion was over he was in England, and Secretary Seward proclaimed to the British Government that Waddell was a pirate and should be treated as such.

THE "SHENANDOAH" ENTERED THE HARBOR,

THE CAPTAIN ASKED FOR A TRIAL

before an English jury, but this was not granted. An investigation was, however, had by the proper officials, and Waddell was exonerated. He claimed then, as he does now, that his manner of entering the harbor of Punipette was fair in war, and that if the Harvest had shown her true colors she would have been spared. He said that he exceedingly regretted the destruction of the vessel, and believed that if its chief officer had been aboard instead of in a frolic on the island the flag of the Hawaiian Government would have been hoisted. It seems that it was the bark's mate that ordered the flying of the American flag, and Captain Waddell is firm in his belief that he acted according to the wishes of his superior officers in firing upon the ship. He says why something was not said or done by the

REPRESENTATIVE OF THE HAWAIIAN GOVERNMENT

Resident in Washington when he (the Captain) was for so long a time within forty miles of that city; and, further, expresses his willingness to assist the owners of the Harvest in obtaining relief before the Board of Arbitration in Washington. He wonders how the Hawaiian subjects expect to gain anything by persecuting him. In the war, he adds, he lost everything and had no employment until the Pacific Mail Steamship Company requested him to take command of the City of San Francisco, and now, when he has reached this city and is just about to fairly enter upon his duties, he discovers that he is to be arrested in Honolulu, ostensibly upon civil suits, but in all probability for the grave crime of piracy upon the high seas, and finally imprisoned for the remainder of his life, or may be made to suffer the death penalty. He complains that all this was to be done when the Hawaiian Government had him at a great disadvantage. His log-book of the Shenandoah is not with him, and neither has he any of his old officers or crew as witnesses.

HE WAS DEEPLY AFFECTED

when informed that he would be superseded in command of the City of San Francisco. He is to temporarily take Captain Lachlan's place as superintendent of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's docks in this city. He was accompanied here by his wife and has rooms at the Palace Hotel. He rapturously speaks of his attachment for the City of San Francisco and declares it to be the best steamship afloat. Strenuous efforts will be made by the company to have the difficulties removed, so that Capt. Waddell will be able to go out on the vessel's second trip. It is highly probable, however, that the matter will go before Congress and that there some action will be taken. A protest is being drawn up on behalf of the Captain and company by an ex-Judge of this city, and this will at once be sent to Washington. The vessel will sail as advertised, with Captain Lachlan as its chief officer. The company is sorely vexed and puzzled and is determined to retain Captain Waddell in its service. They have offered him the command of the City of Peking, but this he has declined.

THE SHENANDOAH.

An Interview with Captain Waddell—an Eventful Cruise.

Captain James I. Waddell, commander of the Pacific Mail Company's newest and most beautiful steamer—the City of San Francisco—carries about in his person a very large volume of unwritten history. He was not exactly born a seaman, like Admiral Porter, but he was educated for that profession at the National Naval Academy at Annapolis, and has made seamanship the profession of his life. After his graduation from Annapolis in 1847, he served continuously in the United States navy until the breaking out of the war of the rebellion in 1861. During that period he was stationed at San Francisco for several months, in 1859, ending that particular service by sailing in the United States steamer Saginaw, then just built at Mare Island. He then ranked as Second Lieutenant. The Saginaw made her initial cruise to China. Lieutenant Waddell remained in her twenty-two months, and then returned to the Atlantic coast, via the Cape of Good Hope, in the old sloop-of-war John Adams, long since out of service. He remained in the Federal naval service, in active employment, until the rupture between the North and South, when, in common with the great majority of officers of both the army and navy of Southern nativity, he resigned, and linked his fortunes with the incipient Southern Confederacy

AS A CONFEDERATE NAVAL OFFICER.

In the organization of a Naval Department for the Confederacy, Lieutenant Waddell's claims were fully recognized and he was given a commission equivalent to that he had resigned in the United States service

His first real service afloat under the Confederate flag was at New Orleans where he was ordered as executive officer of the ironclad steamer Mississippi. He had but entered upon this duty—in fact had been on the ship but two or three days—when Farragut's fleet forced its way by Forts Jackson and St. Phillip, and demonstrated the inability of any existing force to resist it. Commodore Whittle, the Confederate commander of the station, recognizing his inability to cope with so formidable an enemy, promptly ordered the destruction of all the vessels afloat. In obedience to this order Lieutenant Waddell fired the Mississippi and abandoned her when his foe was already nearly on top of him. He escaped in a small boat and fled up the river to Vicksburg, and thence overland to Richmond. He was next assigned to duty as ordnance officer at Drury's Bluff, on the James river, or Fort Darling as it was known through out the Federal lines. Commodore, now Admiral, Rogers was sent with a very light flotilla to reduce this work. It was a desperate and really hopeless undertaking, as Commodore Rogers well knew, but he manifested no hesitation on that account, and, with his accustomed submission to superior authority, proceeded to the duty without questioning, and submitted without complaining to one of the most serious defeats of the war. As Captain Waddell says, "Rogers here made one of the hardest fights against the greatest odds of the war, and was defeated through no fault of his own. It was simply an impossibility to take that work."

After Drury's Bluff, Waddell was sent to Charleston, as second in command, to organize what was then known as a "forlorn hope" to resist the entrance of the Federal monitors into that harbor. Defensive works were built, a small fleet was improvised, torpedoes and obstructions were planted throughout the harbor, and other arrangements perfected to give the hostile visitors a warm reception, but they failed to put in an appearance, and so all this enterprise was wasted. Waddell remained at Charleston two or three months and was then ordered to England to sail as executive officer under Captain T. F. Page, in one of the ironclads then building for the naval service of the Confederacy by the Lairds. The activity of our Government prevented these vessels getting to sea under the flag for which they were originally intended, and thus this service amounted to nothing. But Waddell was kept abroad by orders of his Government until he finally did succeed in getting ocean service, and herein is the volume of unwritten history of which mention has already been made.

THE PURCHASE OF THE "SHENANDOAH."

When a Chronicle reporter called upon Captain Waddell yesterday in relation to this matter, the captain declined to be interviewed. "I intend, some day," he said, "to publish a full history of my cruise in the Shenandoah. Indeed, I have it written already, but have not been able to publish it. I have nothing to withhold or conceal; but I am a poor man, and that history is all I have got aside from my profession."

The reporter assured him that he did not mean to take the bread out of his mouth, but only wanted to introduce him properly to the community, whereupon he courteously sketched his career in that famous Confederate cruiser substantially as follows:

The Shenandoah was a wooden steamer of about 1,000 tons burden, built in Glasgow in 1863, and known as the Sea King. Capt. Waddell, after the failure of the attempt to get the Laird ships to sea, had been instructed by his Government to purchase a vessel for a cruiser, and to proceed in her to the Pacific Ocean and raid on the American whaling fleet. He had difficulty in finding a suitable vessel that was available, but after repeated efforts, extending through an entire year, in the Fall of 1864, he found the Sea King and succeeded in making arrangements with her owner for her purchase. In September of that year she cleared from London with a cargo of coal for Bombay. On the same day a small steamer, the Laurel, fitted out as a blockade-runner, loaded with armament, stores, etc., and carrying a number of Confederate officers, including Capt. Waddell, and some extra seamen, cleared from Liverpool for Nassau. The Laurel sailed directly for the island of Madeira, where she awaited the Sea King. When the latter was seen in the offing the Laurel ran out to her, and there on the broad ocean the purchase and sale was consummated, the Confederate flag hoisted over the Sea King, her name changed to the Shenandoah, and she was proclaimed a vessel of the navy of the Confederate States of America. Captain Waddell assumed command with a full staff of officers and a crew consisting of but nine men and a boy. The armament, consisting of six guns, with the necessary ammunition and stores, were transferred from the Laurel, the old crew were landed at Madeira, and the cruiser, thus scantily manned, started on her career. Under the guidance of Maury's chart a quiet spot in the ocean was found, where the vessel lay as still as if at anchor in San Francisco harbor, where all necessary alterations were made, the armament placed in position, the crew drilled, and other necessary preparations made for the warlike mission upon which she had entered.

CRUISING AND RECRUITING.

Captain Waddell says that at this time his working force was so small that he was unable to set his topsails. But his officers turned in and helped as ordinary seamen, and with their aid the ship was worked until necessary recruits could be obtained. For this purpose he opened a recruiting office on the high sea, and whenever he fell in with a vessel sought volunteers from her, though carefully avoiding coercion or anything approaching imprisonment. The first prize he made was the brig Alina of Boston, bound from London to Buenos Ayres with railroad iron. Her Captain protested against her capture and made oath that the war was ended and peace had been declared. After he had made and sworn to this statement, Captain Waddell, who had sailed from Liverpool ten days later than the Alina from London, produced Liverpool papers to show the falsity of the Captain's statement. He then scuttled and sunk the prize. The Captain of the Alina, when his falsehood was exposed merely replied that he did not consider it wrong to tell a lie to save his property.

The Shenandoah got some recruits from the crew of the Alina. Subsequently she fell in with a clipper ship freighted with Cardiff coal. This vessel she bonded and sent the rest of the Alina's crew to port in her.

For four months the Shenandoah cruised in the Atlantic, preying on any American vessels she could find, and then doubled the Cape of Good Hope and sailed for Melbourne for repairs. Up to this time she had made in all seven captures, and from these had recruited her crew by voluntary enlistments to forty-eight men. She reached Melbourne in January, 1865, and was admitted to the harbor, where she remained nineteen days repairing machinery and laying in coal and supplies. This was the first harbor she had entered since her transfer in September off the island of Madeira, and the first opportunity that had presented itself for putting the vessel in perfect trim. When this was effected she sailed at once on the mission for which she was originally intended—the destruction of the American whaling fleet on the Pacific ocean.

THE DESTRUCTION OF THE WHALERS.

The stoppage at Melbourne, however, had afforded opportunity to those interested to notify the whalers of her presence and the South Pacific was quickly cleared of all such craft. After cruising all over the South Pacific and finding no prey, Captain Waddell headed north and followed the fleet to the Arctic Ocean. He overhauled them in the high latitudes in May, 1865, and began his work of destruction among them. During the months of May, June and July he followed his disagreeable duty, pursuing the whalers as far as 97° north latitude, capturing and destroying in all twenty-eight of them. At one time he caught thirteen together and destroyed them all. Several of the whalers he landed and provisioned, sending them to port with the prisoners captured and paroled from the vessels destroyed. Captain Waddell asserts that in nearly every instance the officers of these vessels claimed that the war was ended, but as they could not prove the fact and professed to have no later papers than he had he could not rely upon their assertions. He justifies his want of confidence in their assertions by referring to the affidavit of the master of the brig Alina, and further claims that it would have been treasonable in him to have spared them simply on their naked assertions.

After the destruction of the whalers, the Shenandoah returned southward and when off San Francisco, on the 2d of August, 1865, she fell in with the British bark Baracoota from whose master Waddell received the first authentic news of the fall of the Confederacy. He at once shaped his course for Liverpool, via Cape Horn, where he surrendered his ship to the British Government. Soon after his surrender he was placed on trial, on a charge of piracy on the high seas, preferred by direction of Secretary Seward, but was honorably acquitted by a British jury.

SUMMARY OF THE CRUISE.

Captain Waddell says the Shenandoah was at sea under his command fourteen months, during all of which time she was in but the one port of Melbourne, and there but once. For a continuous period of eight months her anchors remained undisturbed at her bows, their lashings not even being removed. This, he claims, is the longest continuous cruising on record. During this time she sailed 58,000 statute miles and visited every sea an on the globe except the Antarctic. She is the only ship, the Captain boasts, that carried the Confederate flag around the world. He mentions with pride and manifest pleasure that throughout this protracted cruise, and notwithstanding the number of vessels he captured and destroyed, not a single life, friendly or hostile, was lost. He expressed regret for the property he felt it his duty to destroy, and says it always cost him pain to scuttle or burn a ship, even though it belonged to an enemy. From the time he left Liverpool in the Laurel until he returned and surrendered the Shenandoah he received no communication of any nature from the Confederate Government, nor even from his own family or friends, nor did any of his officers. When he surrendered, the ship was in perfect trim, and as neat as when first leaving port. Her tidy shipshape appearance attracted the most favorable comments of the English press.

Happiness and prosperity depend to a very great extent upon good health. All those suffering from Hoarseness, Cold or Cough, should try Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. It cures.

A Man of a Thousand—A Consumptive Cured.

When death was hourly expected from Consumption, all remedies having failed, accident led to a discovery whereby Dr. H. James cured his only child with a preparation of Cannibis Indica. He now gives this recipe free on receipt of two stamps to pay expenses. There is not a single symptom of consumption that it does not dissipate—Night Sweats, Irritation of the Nerves, Difficult Expectoration, Sharp Pains in the Lungs, Nausea at the Stomach, Inaction of the Bowels and Wasting of the Muscles. THE DAILY NEWS.

FRIDAY.....DECEMBER 17, 1875.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The new paper to be started in Asheboro will be published by a company, with M. S. Robbins as editor, which is a sufficient voucher for its politics.

The Charlotte Observer regrets to learn that the Young Men's Christian Association of that place has almost ceased to exist as an organized body.

The magnificent building purchased and improved by the managers of the Grand Gift Concert of Greensboro, was formally turned over to Buena Vista Lodge No. 21, I. O. O. F., on Tuesday night.

The Newbern Nut-Shell of Wednesday gives the following fatal accident to an aged and respected citizen of that town:

"Last night while the family of Mrs. Ferrebee, residing on Craven street, were seated at supper, an unusual noise and commotion was heard in the room of Mrs. Lacy Phillips, an old and infirm lady boarding with the family, and Mrs. Ferrebee proceeded at once to the room to learn the cause, when she found the entire apartment enveloped in smoke and Mrs. Phillips standing in the floor frantically at empting to smother the flames from her burning clothing. Although terribly excited, Mrs. Ferrebee succeeded in tearing the blazing garments from Mrs. Phillips' body, but not before Mrs. Phillips was so badly burned that death ensued in less than an hour. It is thought the unfortunate lady was passing in front of the fire-place, when the flames communicated to her clothing, causing the sad disaster. Mrs. Ferrebee used every effort to extinguish the flames, burning her own hands almost to a crisp, but the clothing ignited so rapidly that it was impossible for her to get them off in time to save Mrs. Phillips from death."

From a San Francisco Exchange.

A Renewal of Rebellion Reminiscences.

The new steamer San Francisco, belonging to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, arrived in our port on Friday last, commanded by Captain James I. Waddell. This gentleman is not unknown to fame. He is a historic character. He was commander, during the civil war, of the Confederate steamer Shenandoah which cruised once upon the Pacific. His fame as a naval commander was earned by the courage necessary to attack unarmed merchantmen, and the prowess required to brave whaling vessels cruising for blubber in our North Pacific sea. Having lit up our ocean by the fires of burning ships that had no means to resist his piratical attacks, he comes now that peace is declared, to serve them renants he ruined and the people he insulted by commanding one of our Chinamen. This gallant naval officer is an improvement upon the old-fashioned pirates that sailed the Spanish Main, because, to his credit be it said, he did not compel his victims to walk the plank—because dead men tell no tales—but he sent them to San Francisco after he had burned their ships. He sailed not under the black flag, with its death's head and cross bones, but under the glorious banner of the Stars and Bars and under the commission of Secretary Mallory. He bonded the ship Nile, but as the bond was only payable after the Confederate States should achieve their independence, it was but a bit of harmless pleasantry. It would be so much pleasanter to forget our sectional differences and forget our brethren and forget their efforts to destroy the Union, if they would not thrust themselves too prominently forward, that we are almost constrained to wish that Commander Waddell had been assigned to some other field of service than upon a passenger ship in the Pacific.

We recognize the moral beauty of the code that demands us to love our enemies and forgive those who have despitefully use us; that requires us when smitten upon one cheek to turn the other also; but we find it hard to forget that Commander Waddell burned our ships after the war was over. We think it would have been better to have sent this gentleman to Congress than for the Pacific Mail Steamship Company to have brought him to a place so fragrant of his cowardly exploits.

From the St. Louis Republican.

A REMARKABLE PROFESSIONAL SUCCESS.—Among the notable professional men of this country who have achieved extraordinary success is Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. The prominence which he has attained has been reached through strictly legitimate means, and so far therefore, he deserves the enviable reputation which he enjoys. This large measure of success is the result of a thorough and careful preparation for his calling and extensive reading during a long and unusually large practice, which have enabled him to gain high commendation, even from his professional brethren. Devoting his attention to certain specialties of the science he has so carefully investigated, he has been rewarded in a remarkable degree. In these specialities, he has become a recognized leader. Not a few of the remedies prescribed by him have, it is said, been adopted and prescribed by physicians in their private practice. His pamphlets and larger worlds have been received as useful contributions to medical knowledge. He has recently added another, and perhaps more important work, because of more general application, to the list of his published writings. This book, entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," is designed to enter into general circulation. Dr. Pierce has received acknowledgments and honors from many sources, and especially scientific degrees from two of the first medical institutions in the land.

MIDNIGHT DISPATCHES.

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.

Senate.—Cooper gave notice that he would on Tuesday next ask the consideration of a resolution commemorative of the life and services of his late colleague, Andrew Johnson.

Morton submitted the following resolution:

WHEREAS, it is alleged that the late election in Mississippi for members of Congress, State officers and members of the Legislature was characterized by great frauds, violence and intimidation whereby the freedom of the ballot was in a great measure destroyed, a reign of terror established, the ballot-boxes stuffed, and spurious tickets imposed upon voters, so that a popular majority of more than 25,000 was overcome, and in its place was given an apparent but fraudulent majority of more than 25,0 0; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature thus chosen will have the election of a Senator to represent that State in this body; and

WHEREAS, if these allegations are true, a great number of the citizens of the United States have had their rights under the Constitution and laws of the United States wickedly violated; therefore

Resolved, That a Committee of five Senators be appointed by the Chair to investigate the truth of the said allegations and the circumstances attending said election, with power to visit said State, to make their investigations, to send for persons and papers, and to use all necessary process in the performance of their duties and to make a report to the Senate before the end of this session of their investigation and findings.

At the request of Bayard, of Delaware, the resolution was laid over until to-morrow.

Morton also submitted the following:

Resolved by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring, That the people of the United States constitute a nation, and are one people in the sense of National unity.

Resolved, That the Government of the United States is not a compact between the States in their municipal and corporate characters, but was formed by the people of the United States in their primary capacity: that the rights of the States are defined and guaranteed by the Constitution and not by any outside theory of State sovereignty, and that the rights of the States cannot be enlarged or diminished except by an amendment to the Constitution.

Resolved, That the rights of the States have the same sanction and security in the constitution as the rights and powers of the national government, and that local domestic government by the States within the limits of the constitution is an essential part of our free republican system.

Resolved, That the doctrine that a State has the right to secede from the Union is inconsistent with the idea of nationally, is in conflict with the spirit and structure of the constitution, and should be regarded as having been forever extinguished by the suppression of the rebellion.

Mr. Stevenson, of Kentucky, submitted the following:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be and he is hereby requested, to transmit to the Senate copies of all letters, telegrams, orders and instructions relating to the organization and prosecution of alleged infractions of the Internal Revenue Laws at St. Louis, Chicago and Milwaukee that have deemed incompatible with the public interest.

After long argument and much objection from the Republican side, Stevenson withdrew it.

A large number of private bills were introduced, and after Executive session, the Senate adjourned.

The nominations of J. B. Stickney, District Attorney of Northern Florida, D B Corbin, of S. C., H. B. Whitfield, of Northern Mississippi, R. W. Kealy, United States Marshal, of Southern Alabama, W. F. Prasser, of Middle Tennessee, were made, and confirmations of Ringgold, Appraiser of Merchandise at New Orleans, Clarke, Postmaster at Eufula, Ala.

House—Several financial and postal bills were introduced and referred.

Randall introduced a bill removing all disabilities imposed by the 3rd section of 14th article of the amendment of the Constitution. The bill was set for Tuesday next week immediately after the reading of the Journal.

Raines, of S. C., introduced a bill to abolish the committee on Freedman's Affairs of the House.

Holeman, of Indiana, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That in the judgment of this House in the present condition of the financial affairs of the government, no subsidies in money, bonds, public lands, endorsements or by pledge of the public credit, should be granted by Congress to associations or corporations engaged or proposing to engage in public or private enterprises, and that all appropriations from the public Treasury ought to be limited at this time to such amounts only as shall be imperatively demanded by the public service—yeas 93 nays adopted—30 yeas.

Springer, of Illinois, offered a resolution, declaring that in the opinion of the House, the precedent established by Washington and other Presidents of the United States, in retiring from the presidential office after their second term has become by universal concurrence a part of our Republican system of the government, and that any departure from that time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic and fraught with evil to our free institutions. It was adopted, yeas 232, nays 18.

Among the nays were Haralson, of Ala., Hoge, of S. C., Hyman, of N. C., Nash, of La., Small, of S. C., Wells, of Fla., Wells, of Miss., and White, of Kentucky.

On motion of Blaine, Rainey's resolution abolishing the House Committee on Freedman's Affairs was agreed to.

The House passed a concurrent resolution to adjourn over from next Monday till Tuesday the fourth of January, and adjourned till Friday.

The Mosel—Confession of a Diabolical Plan.

BREMEN, Dec 15.—It is ascertained that the passenger who owned the case of dynamite is named Thomason. He confessed he constructed the chest which exploded, and had arranged clock-work to explode it after the lapse of a certain time. The police have examined his work shop and found some of the packing material but no explosives.

Mayor Cobb has been re-elected Mayor of Boston by a plurality of 2,500.

Virginia Senatorial Election.—Hon. John W. Johnston nominated in Caucus.

RICHMOND, Dec. 15.—The exciting contest for U. S. Senator which has occupied the time and attention of Conservative Legislature of Va., for 4 days was brought to a close this afternoon in the renomination of Hon. Jno. W. Johnson, the present incumbent under the new rule adopted at the morning session of the caucus. Seven candidates were placed in nomination and the balloting was resumed. Four ballots, resulted in the dropping of Judge Christian, Hon. J. T. Harriss, Hon. A. H. H. Stuart, and Ex-Gov. Smith successively in the order named, leaving the field to Senator Johnston, Hon. John Goode Jr., representative of the second Congressional District and State Senator Jno. W. Daniel. The roll was called for the next ballot, the forty-fourth. Amid most profound silence, this ballot resulted, Johnston 55 Daniel 45 Goode 39. Upon the announcement of this vote, and that the name of Mr. Goode would be dropped, the excitement became so great that some minutes elapsed before the roll for the 45th ballot could be called. Quiet being finally restored, the roll was called with the following result: Johnston 75, Daniel 64, Johnston receiving only three votes more than the number required to make the nomination. The Chairman announced result of the ballot amid great applause. The caucus adjourned sine die. The second ballot was taken to-day in both houses for U. S. Senator resulting the same as yesterday, but to-morrow the ballot will result in the re-election of Senator Johnston.

Something from the Amerique, perhaps.

LONDON, Dec 15.—The steamer Indies from Alexandria reports on the 3d off Cape St. Vincent, Portugal, she passed a barque-rigged steamer in tow of a schooner-rigged steamer. Both of same company, funnels painted red, with black top. It was probably the L'Amerique in tow of the Valk De Brest.

Domestic Miscellany.

The total vote in Boston for Mayor was 27,200, the largest with one exception ever cast. The Republicans 8 alderman and 49 councilmen. The Democrats elect three of the former and twenty three of the latter.

If you want a Pure Whiskey for medicine; if you want a pure Whiskey for family use; if you want a really pure and good Whiskey which will do you good ask R. F. Jones & Co. to send you a barrel, keg or a demijoon, and you will find it as represented. "Not a headache in a hogshead of it."

I have analyzed the Whiskey known under the brand of "B Select," controlled by Messrs. Walter D. Blair & Co., Richmond, Va., and find it free from fusil oil and other impurities, and recommend its use for medicinal and family purposes.

J. F. McCAW, M. D.,
Late Professor of Chemistry, Medical College of Virginia.

The above certificate from one of the most eminent chemists of Virginia speaks for itself, but in addition to the above we can say that the "B Select" Whiskey is recommended by most all the leading physicians of Raleigh.

Rotunda floor is laid of Pennsylvania Slate, red, blue and white tiles. Vestibule floor is at present of marble, intended, by removing the upper floor to lay flags of the various building stones of this State.

Mouldings and doorfacings opening from rotunda into the principal rooms are of cat-face pine varnished. Moulding and panel work of Parlor and Library, of sycamore, by maple, of the dining room, birch, (resembling polished Mahogany.

All the mantles and hearths are marble. In the parlor White Italian, in the Library Tennessee, and in dining room, Vermont, both imported. There are seven closets on the first floor in sides closets, stores rooms, and dressing rooms. Three on the second floor and two in the basement.

Gas fixtures throughout. Water closets with modern appliances. Verandah on the four sides of the building, that on the East extending whole length of it.

The build ng was begun in June, 1859, and finished in April, 1861, at a cost of about $32,000 in gold.

The shrubbery, ornamental, and fruit trees are rare, embracing Pecan from Texas, Oaks from Arkansas, Magnolias from Louisiana and Locust from China.

The residence stands upon two acres. The fruit consists of pears, peaches, plums, apples, apricots, scuppernong, Clinton and Concord grapes.

It is one of the most desirable places in the State. If not sold by the 25th day of December it can be rented for the coming year. For any other information call on the undersigned, at Battle, at Raleigh, or the undersigned, at Petersburg, Virginia.
